Mortuary Supply Co. Is To Expand Plant Here--Old Building Must Go

A RICKETY OLD LANDMARK ON SOUTH FAYETTE STREET gives way to progress and building is torn down to make way for expansion of Mortuary Supply Co. plant. (R-H Photo)

Another old landmark in the city is slowly vanishing as wreckers tear it away to make room for a modern building.

The building, an old frame structure, was located on South Fayette Street, immediately north of the Washington Mortuary Supply Co., 240 South Fayette Street. It is being torn away by J. P. Roberts, who recently removed an old cottage which fronted on Broadway immediately back of the Mortuary Co. plant.

Both old structures removed will make way for expansion of the mortuary supply manufacturing plant.

The company is planning to erect a modern building, taking in the land occupied by the two old buildings, and extending back to, or near, the alley.

Full plans for the new building

Physicians of County And Hospital Trustees Recommend Expansion

Two sets of resolutions are now in the hands of the Fayette County commissioners asking that body to take steps to provide for a building program for the Fayette County Memorial Hospital to meet the needs of that institution.

One set of resolutions is from the four members of the present board of trustees for the hospital and is addressed to the county commissioners. The other resolutions are from the staff of physicians and surgeons of the hospital and were originally sent to the board of trustees. In turn these resolutions were included by being attached to the ones sent by the trustees to the commissioners.

While no specific recommendations are made except in a general way in these resolutions, it has been generally understood that unofficial estimates for the addition of a small wing to the hospital would cost approximately $150,000 when fully equipped.

Whether the county commissioners will take action in time to present this to the voters through the county board of elections, in the form of a bond issue, by the middle of September is not known. Such action would be necessary if the issue is put up to the voters.

Everybody gets a little lift out of a few kind words and a compliment . . . we of the Record-Herald are no exception and admit it. What's more I am going to toot our own horn . . . and with a certain amount of satisfaction . . . appreciation is part of the compensation for effort.

John Weade, who makes something of a specialty of cured meats has been in the habit of packing old Record-Herald papers around his hams and bacon when he ships them in boxes to out-of-county patrons.

"You'd be surprised at the number of people who notice the Record-Herald and the comments they make about it," he said.

What brought this all about, was a letter he had just received from G. M. Murphy in Pine Bluff, Ark. John said he has been shipping him meat for several years. His customer, he explained, buys it for his own use, not for sale.

Murphy wrote that he had always read the Record-Herald in his meat packages and eventually had to express his feelings. To quote in brief:

"They (the Record-Heralds) are extremely interesting and so much better than our own papers, even if they are old. The editorials are very good . . . there are those garden and farm stories that are very educational.

"My wife reads the papers, too, and she was much more interested in them than in our own, because the local news is so much better written."

Well, Mr. Murphy, I don't know you, but we of the Record-Herald news staff do appreciate your kind words. People rarely overlook a chance to criticize, but few take the trouble to compliment.

FIGHTING FLARES IN KOREA

Crime Crusade Changes Hands But Keeps Going

Kefauver Report Stresses Need for Cleaning Politics

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Senate crime investigating committee officially passed to new hands today its crusade to drive crime overlords and their crooked political allies into prison or oblivion.

A fight promptly started over what course the Senate Crime Committee, the successor group, should take.

Senator Hunt (D-Wyo.), a member of both committees, announced he will urge a two-year halt in formal investigations, declaring "we have shown the conditions which exist and should concentrate now on pressing for corrective legislation."

Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), a commerce committee member, told a reporter "I'm afraid that's exactly what the decision will be -- and if it happens, about all the people are going to get from the crime investigation is two good television shows and a book."

His reference was to televising of the crime committee hearings, which drew record TV audiences across the nation, and a book on the hearings written by Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.), former committee chairman.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.), a member of the expiring committee, said he felt the inquiries should continue. The final report urged "captive communities" to shake off the shackles of crime and corrupt politics and band together for a war on crime.

Wiley said the report, filed as the group's last official act, "should have spelled out to the commerce committee specific areas still requiring investigation."

In its windup report, the crime committee urged citizens to create civic crime commissions, completely independent of political office holders.

It called also for Congress to put up $100,000 -- and then take hands off -- to launch a national crime coordinating council to give direction to the local units. It would be privately financed thereafter.

It also called for Congress to put up $100,000 -- and then take hands off -- to launch a national crime coordinating council to give direction to the local units. It would be privately financed thereafter.

An Ohio congressman, who asked that his name not be used, told a reporter the formal order is expected Tuesday.

He also said a 32nd county--Greene--may be included in the order.

Farmers in a disaster area may obtain government loans to buy feed and seed and in some cases, for family subsistence. The primary purpose of these loans is to help farmers maintain production, not to permit them to recover their losses resulting, in this case, from a prolonged drought.

The 31 counties expected to be covered by the order are: Preble, Butler, Hamilton, Montgomery, Warren, Clermont, Brown, Adams, Highland, Clinton, Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Pike, Scioto, Lawrence, Jackson, Vinton, Hocking.

Fairfield, Perry, Athens, Meigs, Gallia, Washington, Morgan, Muskingum, Guernsey, Noble, Monroe, and Belmont.

Deputy Sheriff Roy Underwood arrested Clifford Reffitt, 22, Hillsboro, at Jimmy's Recreation place on U. S. 22 west of the city, Friday night, on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was fined $10 and costs in Justice Ludwick's court Saturday forenoon.

Heat and Drought Here Eased by Violent Storm

A series of violent electrical storms which swept Fayette County late Friday night, brought a definite break in the hottest weather of the season.

The rainfall was more or less general but there were parts of the county which got no rain at all and others where rainfall was very heavy and did a great deal of good.

In Washington C. H., where violent electrical storms flashed and banged between 2 and 3 A. M., precipitation was only .1 of an inch.

East of the city in the main path of the storm it was much heavier and there was some hail.

Friday's peak temperature was 101 degrees and the day took its place as one of the hottest in recent years as well as the hottest of the season.

Not only was the heat intense but the humidity made the temperature keenly felt by everyone. It slowed down work in many lines.

The temperature reached 90 early Friday and by 12:45 P. M. was standing at 100. A short time later the government thermometers recorded 101 degrees or slightly above.

Friday night was one of the hottest of the year, with a low of 72 recorded late in the morning. This was one degree warmer than the previous night.

However cloudy and cooler weather was in prospect for over Saturday and Sunday, and at 8 A. M. Saturday the reading was 74 degrees. Eighty-nine was the peak a year ago, and 67 the low point.

Friday Was Scorching All over Central Ohio

(By The Associated Press)

How hot was it Friday?

Well, if you were in Cleveland, it wasn't so bad (91). But if you were in downtown Springfield, you had something to complain about. There, the Springfield Sun's thermometer registered 108. In the suburbs it was a "cool" 102.5. In Middletown it was 105, and Cincinnati registered a mere 103.

In all, nine western Ohio cities recorded temperatures of 100 and up.

In Cleveland, on the other hand, it was only 91, four degrees lower than Thursday.

How hot will it get today?

The Weather Bureau says the top will be 70-75 in northern Ohio and 80-85 in the southern portion. And, the bureau adds, it's likely to stay that way Sunday.

But, while Ohioans breathed a sigh of relief, they knew they would not soon forget yesterday's scorcher because it set new records all over the state--and those records go down in the books to be resurrected the next time there's an August hot spell.

But, for the record right now, here's how other Ohio cities suffered yesterday.

Washington C. H. 101, Hamilton and Toledo 101; Dayton, Lima and Findlay 100.

Columbus missed the century mark by one degree.

A number of cases of heat exhaustion were reported, but no deaths.

Weather Contrasts

The nation's weather map was a study in contrasts today.

The southern states, the Ohio Valley and the central Atlantic seaboard, continued to swelter in temperatures around 100 degrees or higher but cool air had overspread the northern and central states.

McAlester, Okla., and Pensacola, Tex., had 108 yesterday. Magnolia, Ark., had 107, and readings of 100 or more were commonplace. Agriculturists said the continued hot spell threatens heavy cotton crop damage in Mississippi and Louisiana.

The cooler air meanwhile had spread into Pennsylvania, Ohio, northern Illinois and Indiana and into Missouri and Kansas. In Chicago, a summer's high of 92.3 was hit yesterday afternoon, but the thermometer then dipped more than 20 degrees in a few hours.

Showers fell early today in Missouri, eastern Ohio, north and western Pennsylvania, New York and at several spots in the northern plains. A light drizzle fell from northeastern Iowa eastward across southern Michigan.

SEPTEMBER OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for September calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals west of the Continental Divide and in western parts of the northern plains.

Above normal temperatures are indicated in the eastern half of the nation, Texas, and the central plains with greatest departures in the lower Mississippi Valley.

Elsewhere the outlook is for temperatures not far from seasonal normals.

Rainfall is expected to exceed seasonal normals in the plains and Rocky Mountain states. Subnormal amounts are indicated from the Gulf states northeastward to New England with the exception of east coastal areas where moderate to locally heavy amounts are anticipated. Elsewhere precipitation will be about normal.

New Red Troops Seen at Front As Truce Balked

Some Old Chatter Put Out by Commies About Bombings

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Four new Red divisions were spotted on Korea's east-central front today as bloody fighting continued on the slopes of jagged mountain peaks.

AP Correspondent George McArthur said there were "some indications" the Reds might jump off shortly on a major offensive.

An Allied officer told McArthur the reinforced Red forces in the east could throw "a whale of a blow" at the UN positions. But he added he did not believe the Reds could appreciably dent the Allied line.

There was stepped-up action on land and sea and in the air. Allied officers said their divisions were engaged in the heaviest fighting since the now-suspended truce talks started in Kaesong July 10.

Bombers and fighters attacked Red supply and communications facilities in North Korea.

The ground fighting centered on the central and east-central fronts. Gains of up to four miles were hammered out in the east and some gains were registered in the center of the 100-mile battleline.

'Bloody Ridge' Battle

The UN Allies were stalled in a savage all-day battle for "Bloody Ridge" on the east-central front. AP Photographer Bob Otey reported the Reds fought to the death from deep bunkers and machine gun nests.

"Bloody Ridge" is a series of jagged peaks more than 3,000 feet high.

Red resistance was stiffening. One United Nations unit was counterattacked five times today. The attacks started before dawn and continued late Saturday afternoon.

SAME OLD RED STUNT

MUNSAN, Korea, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Allied investigators said today if any plane bombed the neutral Korean armistice site this morning -- as the Reds claim -- it was "an aircraft other than a United Nations aircraft."

The inference was the Reds staged the bombing themselves, for propaganda purposes.

Air Force Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior United Nations liaison officer, told a Red liaison officer in the conference city at Kaesong it was possible that a plane had bombed the Kaesong area early today.

But, Kinney said, there was no evidence to show the plane involved was an aircraft under United Nations control.

The Red officer, Co. Chang Chun San, accused Kinney of "ulterior motives," and "lying."

Kinney said, "I can see no point in continuing to discuss the matter further."

Allies Have Mystery

Meanwhile, an unidentified aircraft tonight dropped 12 flares over the advanced United Nations camp here.

A pooled dispatch said flares also were dropped over the "peace train" where Allied correspondents live while covering the now-suspended truce talks.

The dispatch said that a two-engine plane could be heard in the area but the plane did not follow up the flare dropping with further action.

Officials at the advance UN camp could give no immediate explanation of the flare incident.

Brandy, and Not Love, Blamed By Frank Sinatra for Woes As He Denies Suicide Attempt

LAKE TAHOE, Calif., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Crooner Frank Sinatra today hotly denied reports he swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills in an attempt at suicide.

"I've never heard anything so damn wild and ridiculous," Sinatra told newsmen.

Referring to reports which said he took the pills after a spat with screen actress Ava Gardner, Sinatra said:

"This would be a hell of a time to do away with myself. I've been trying to lick this thing for two years and I've practically got it licked now."

His friends said that was a reference to his wife's refusal to free him so he could marry Miss Gardner.

Sinatra, who's fulfilling singing engagements in Nevada, is now establishing divorce residence here. He says he'll marry Miss Gardner after that.

He gave this account of what probably started the suicide rumors:

"This whole thing took place

Monday night, which makes me laugh.

"Ava and I were out that night and I drank a lot of brandy. When I dropped Ava off and went back to my place I couldn't sleep, and no wonder.

"So I got up and took a couple of second tablets, but they kind of stuck in my chest. I got a little worried and called a friend of mine who runs the steak house here x x x and he sent me a doctor.

"He x x x gave me a glass of warm water with some salt in it. It made me throw up and I was all right."

New Sanitarian Is Named Here

Charles P. Jones Starts Job Sept. 15

Charles P. Jones, 29, of Troy, has accepted the position of city and county sanitarian in the Health Department, Dr. Gordon Savage, head of the department, announced Friday. He will report for work here on September 15.

The sanitarian's position has been vacant since Donald Lange resigned August 1. He went in private business.

At the present time Jones is associated with the Troy city and Miami county departments of health as sanitarian.

Jones attended Akron University and was for a time employed by the Akron Board of Health. During World War II, he was in the army signal corps, intelligence branch. He is married and has two children, Terry Alden, 6, and Sandra Lynne, four months.

While attending the university, Jones studied farm engineering and animal husbandry. He has also attended a number of seminars conducted by the Ohio Department of Health and the U. S. Public Health Service.

Lange, who had been with the department since July 16, 1949, accepted a position with Sinclair Oil Co.

Michigan Fair Has Troubles Getting Open

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—(AP)—After a bumpy start because of labor trouble, Michigan's 102nd annual State Fair opened on schedule today.

It's opening yesterday, however, was anything but serene. An AFL-CIO waiters' jurisdictional dispute tied just about everything into a knot.

Comedian Bob Hope, singer Marilyn Maxwell and Gov. G. Mennen Williams got left out on lunch. So did other dignitaries in their party. AFL cooks had locked up the food.

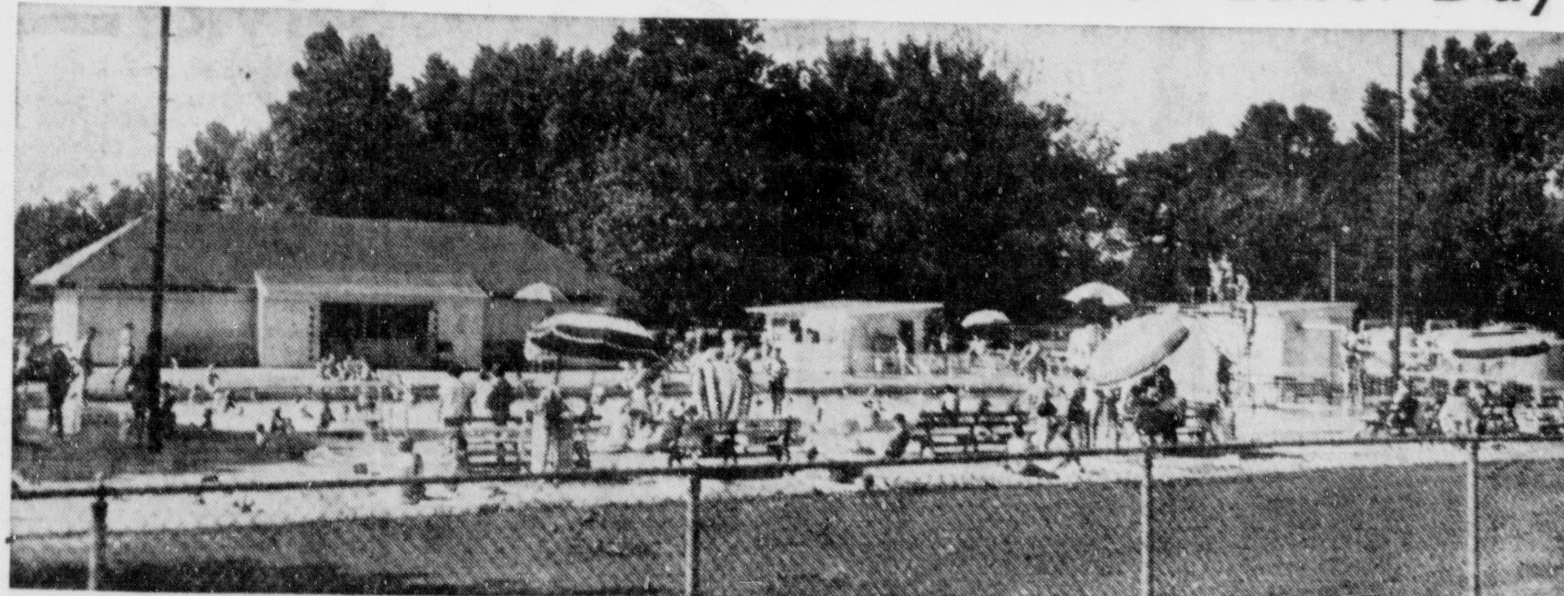

The public got in free when no ticket takers showed up at the gates.

With Hope absent, 5,000 spectators sweated it out in 95-degree heat in the Coliseum while waiting vainly for his show to go on.

"I belong to a union, too," Hope said in refusing to cross a picket line of AFL women.

Fair sources said that nonetheless Bob got his $5,000-a-performance pay check.

Swimming Pool To Close for Winter Labor Day

IT'S NOW ONLY A MATTER OF HOURS until the Washington Park swimming pool will be closed for the winter. Labor Day will be the last time sweltering humanity of the community -- and some visitors from away from here, too -- can cool off in the clear water of the pool. It will open for the final holiday plunge at 10 A. M. and then be closed for nine months. Fred Pierson, the pool manager this season, said that if the weather is hot, he expects a big turnout for the collective swim song. The pool has been a busy place this summer, what with its abnormal hot weather. The records show that there were 397 master memberships and 587 associate memberships this season. But, in addition 5,235 guest tickets were used by children and 4,181 by adults through Aug. 30. That makes for a lot of splashing. The above Record-Herald photo was snapped on a cool day early this week. There were more than twice that many in when the mercury hit 101 Friday. The biggest day was July 15 when 139 adult and 129 children's guest tickets were sold. On July 4, there were 135 adult and 78 children guests. No check is kept on the members, either master or associate.

Water Table Dropping Due To Drought

Farm Wells Being Threatened with Water Scarcity

The extended drought which has been worrying farmers over much of the state for the last 60 days, is lowering the water table generally.

At the present time, according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, there may be a repetition of the falling water table and dry wells in this area, similar to that in 1949.

Already some farm wells in the county have gone dry and others are showing indications of drying up, unless ample rainfall comes within a short time.

A tabulation of 11 index wells scattered throughout the state shows that the average water level on July 1, 1951 was only twelve hundredths of a foot below the average on July 1, 1950. On August 1, 1951 the average level for the 11 index wells was almost a foot lower than on August 1, 1950. During the month of July the average level of water in these wells had fallen over a foot. This rate of decline is greater than is normally expected at this time of year.

Unless the autumn rains are adequate, according to the Division of Water, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, there will undoubtedly be a period of very low water levels later this fall.

It should be noted however that the extreme low levels recorded in late 1949 were followed by record high levels in the first two months of 1950. One rainy month, January 1950, more than restored the decline caused by the preceding dry period. The present situation is not alarming in view of what occurred then.

The Division of Water predicts that some wells may go dry for a short period this fall, but no long term general water level decline is indicated.

Lucky Weather Breaks Saved Wheat from Rust

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—A lucky combination of favorable weather conditions has saved the 1951 wheat crop from the most threatening outbreak of wheat disease that has existed in years. But government experts say the could tell you the mother of each calf and there were several on feed. This boy likes all the calves but "Buster" is his favorite. He has developed a fondness for him and the other calves, that will be of great value to him when he grows up and begins farming for himself, for unless you really care for domestic animals you won't be very successful with them.

Farm boys get a liberal education as they grow up on the farm, which explains the old adage, "If you want a good farmer, you must raise him on the farm." There are many exceptions but in the main, it is true.

PAINT
I took some time off this week to help paint the house, and I'm learning some things about painting that I thought would be of interest to our readers. Here are a few of them: Take time to remove the loose paint, or you can't expect to get much of a job. We use a stiff wire brush and a putty knife for this purpose and we take the paint off in a hurry.

If it rains, wait for the surface to dry, for paint on a wet surface may not stick very well. A neighbor told me yesterday of a house that was painted last year, when the building was wet, and much of it is scaling off, while the paint on their house put on the following week when there wasn't much rain, is sticking very well. The explanation is simple; the wet surface tends to dilute the paint and since the tiny crevices in the wood are filled with water, the paint can't penetrate them, and so scales off.

Take plenty of time to stir the paint well, for if you don't, the paint on the top of the can will be much thinner than that in the bottom.

"Don't dilute the paint very much if at all, for most paint firms know what is the best consistency and make the paint accordingly. Our paint dealer advised using turpentine for thinning when necessary. He also advised using a thinner paint for the first coat than for the second, so it will penetrate better; and then to take plenty of time to brush it in, and he has sold a lot of paint, and has many well satisfied customers. He says that if you do a good job getting this first filler coat on uniformly, that the next coat sticks to it, and your paint will last for a long time.

Fall Pasture Is Important

Farmers Urged To Stretch Pasturing

It will pay farmers to stretch the fall pasture season as late as possible this year, declares the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued this week. This will cut down costly feed-bills, give beef and dairy cattle extra grazing days and result in lower production costs.

Three steps for making pastures pay maximum returns this fall were suggested by the committee: Top-dress and graze permanent pastures with fertilizer carrying nitrogen, phosphate and potash to give fast recovery after summer heat.

Add plant nutrients to old meadows that will be plowed under for corn next spring.

Plant special fall crops such as winter rye, winter wheat and other crops that will give good grazing. Be sure they are planted early enough to produce good growth. These should be planted in grain fields not seeded to legume-grass mixtures.

"Giving the crops needed nutrients at planting time," says the statement, "is vital in getting extra grazing results this fall and early grazing next spring. Pastures will get off to an earlier start and save costly days of barn feeding if they are top-dressed as soon as growth begins in the spring."

Agronomists point out that legume-grass pastures, a top-dressing late this fall or early spring of a nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer such as 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 will build thicker, higher-yielding stands.

Wheat experts predicted it would be transmitted back to the big American wheat growing states against this past spring as the crop began to ripen across the country. If wet, warm weather, expected the disease to cause heavy damage.

But first there was drought in southern states. That helped keep it under control. Later the drought spread to the states farther north just at the time the rust might have caused its greatest damage had the weather been wet.

Department of Agriculture experts say the disease has been found on barberry or wheat in Iowa, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Mississippi, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Minnesota, Indiana, Virginia and North Dakota.

It will be at least two or three years before high-yielding rust-resistant wheat seed is available in commercial quantities.

A new seed suitable for planting in Mexico has been developed and will be used widely this winter south of the Rio Grande. This is expected to reduce damage in Mexico, but wheat experts say the rust probably will winter elsewhere and remain as a threat to the American crop in 1951.

Bookwalter Elevator Taken Over by Co-op

The grain elevator at Bookwalter today was taken over by the Fayette County Farm Bureau Cooperative Association.

The 10,000 bushel capacity elevator was purchased from Lee Salisbury of Washington C. H. August 18, just 29 days after the Co-op elevator at Jeffersonville burned on July 20.

Clarence Cooper, general manager of the Co-op explained that the Farm Bureau had taken over the Bookwalter elevator after the directors had decided on that course "to provide satisfactory service to Co-op patrons until the Co-op elevator at Jeffersonville can be rebuilt."

He said the Co-op directors expressed "regret" over the inconvenience the patrons of the Jeffersonville elevator have endured since the fire. He added: "Now that satisfactory service can be given the Co-op patrons at the Bookwalter elevator, the directors are going ahead and making definite plans to rebuild at Jeffersonville."

Farmers Share of $1 For Food Is 49 Cents

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—The farmer's share of the average dollar consumers spent for farm foods was about 49 cents in June and July, the lowest for any month this year, the agriculture department reported today.

The department said prices received by farmers for food products in July were almost five percent below the record reached in February this year but the retail price remained substantially the same.

"Thus," the department commented, "practically all of the decrease in farm prices had been absorbed by increases in marketing charges."

In January this year the farmer's share of the consumer dollar spent for farm foods was 50 cents. This went up to 51 cents for February, March and April. It moved back down to 50 cents in May. In June 1950 it was 46 cents.

PIGS AND PROFITS

Getting pigs up to market weight in the shortest period of time is a major problem with swine producers. They know that economical feeding plus rapid growth is the key to the profit treasure chest.

The critical nutritional period starts with the unborn pig and continues until the farrowed pigs reach a weight of 75 pounds each. To assure a better start toward earlier, profitable market weight, many successful hog raisers feed

Lesson of Labor Day Could Yet Be Learned

What is the significance of the Labor Day holiday, to the people here in Fayette County, and of other places in this state and nation?

How many people will contemplate what it means to the country or what it should mean, or what has been accomplished out of the ideals it is supposed to signify?

Already it is very evident that people all over the country are taking advantage of this weekend in a manner which may set a record.

Since Friday afternoon and evening many cities are wearing almost a deserted air because the rush for here, there and everywhere began.

Highways, trains and buses have been crowded. Resorts are overflowing. Just about three families out of four seem to be striving for a last short summertime vacation before school opens and a settling down before fall and winter starts.

There is nothing wrong with that, of course. A little play now and then is a good thing for body and spirit. But it would do no harm to devote a few leisure moments to looking back on the year that has passed since the last Labor Day and considering it in the light of the significance of this particular holiday.

How much progress, it might be asked, has labor made in the last 12 months?

The answer to that question is not easily given. If the unions have conducted many strikes, these interruptions to production have kept goods in short supply, higher wages have increased costs and prices, and public sympathy has been lost.

Nevertheless, the lost ground can still be retrieved. If organized labor has followed a course that contributed to inflation, it is not yet too late to prevent inflation of the runaway variety.

All-out production, and a cessation of continuous demands for higher pay in the year to come would head it off.

At the same time big and little business can cooperate by holding out against higher prices and bigger profits. Management and labor should see the handwriting on the wall and patriotically strive to win public goodwill. And government could help by cutting down its waste.

If the lesson of the last 12 months is honestly applied, Labor Day in 1952 could mark real and permanent gains for American workers and the public.

Japanese Treaty

Pending peace treaty with Japan, expected to be concluded this year, is rightly called something new in diplomatic history. It is the opposite of vindictiveness against a power which assaulted America less than a decade ago and conducted a cruel war against her.

The treaty is dictated by hard international considerations. Total defeat and unconditional surrender left a vacuum which Washington felt compelled to plug up with American money and men lest Russia move in.

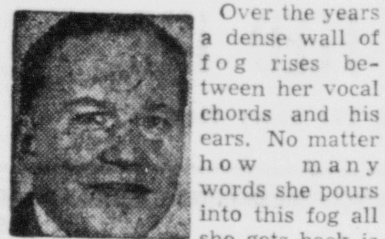

Now the defeated former enemy is to be permitted to rebuild its armaments and industries without restriction.

This will be a step toward recreation of the balance of power which World War II wrecked, allowing Russia to loom terrifyingly large.

Husbands Don't Listen to Wives

NEW YORK—(AP)—The average American wife can get everything she wants from the average American husband—except his attention.

Over the years a dense wall of fog rises between her vocal chords and his ears. No matter how many words she pours into this fog all she gets back is "uh huh" or a non-committal grunt.

And though the manly fellow may shower her with mink and diamonds, and endow her with progeny, the wife remains unsatisfied. She thinks conversation, like charity, should begin at home.

"You don't talk to me anymore," she says accusingly. Translated into English, this means, "You don't listen to me anymore."

But, granting this is what she really has in mind, why doesn't the average husband listen to his wife? Why shouldn't a dirty old thing that grew up from rats and snails and puppy dog tails jump at the chance to converse with a fair creature made of sugar and spice and everything nice?

I asked several husbands this question. The first said, rather cynically I thought: "Listen, I don't know why, but if you lived by a waterfall for 20 years do you think you'd still hear it? No."

Another replied, "To tell the truth, I don't remember anything my wife said to me since 1935." It turned out that what she had said then was: "Shut up!"

A third answered he quit listening to his bride because all she did was make such despondent remarks as:

"Well, guess what happened today? The laundry didn't come back." Or, "That new butcher is getting awful fresh with me again. I wish you'd go to the store and put him in his place."

This husband said a strained silence had ensued in his household ever since he told her, "Honey, why don't you put your complaints to music and play them to me on a ukelele?"

A fourth marital old-timer said defensively, "That's why people have kids—so wives'll have somebody to talk to. Conversation is for couples that are still courting."

And a fifth said: "It's simple. The less you talk at home, the fewer the quarrels."

My what bitter men!

And then I met a white-haired old gentleman, as wise as any man can be in the ways and whims of women, who said:

"My boy, there are only two sentences a man can say that really make sense to a woman. The first is, 'Will you marry me?'

The second is, 'I love you.'"

"When he has said those two sentences he is through with the art of conversation at home. The trouble is that women, who often don't mean what they say, always suspect that men never mean what they say. They want to be assured over and over again. If a man, no matter what his wife said to him, just answered 'I love you,' everything would be all right."

"I have followed that formula for 40 years, and I don't actually remember anything my wife has said in all that time."

When I asked him if it had been ever thus through history, he said:

"No, in the cave days there was more conversation. The husband went forth and slew a deer and hauled it home. He would brag and brag until the meat was all gone. Then his wife would hand him his club and say, 'Honey, go do it again.'"

"Today, however, the average husband doesn't bring enough home to brag about and he wearsies of hearing his wife say, 'Is that all?'"

"A final point: civilization is boring to many people. The husband is bored at work, the wife is bored at home."

"The difficulty that arises then is that a man, when he gets bored, shuts up. But a woman—ah!"

And the old man shook his white head in sorrow.

Diet and Health Emotional Needs Cause Overweight

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN
Overweight results from overeating.

This is not an absolute rule. There are certain glandular states which can stimulate the body to form excessive fat. But, since these states are very rare, it remains true that the vast majority of obese people gained their poundage by overindulgence in the pleasures of the table.

In studying this problem, doctors have been increasingly concerned of late years with the question of why certain people seem to enjoy food so much. As a result of their investigations, many have come to believe that in such cases the food is eaten to satisfy an emotional rather than a physical need.

In other words, the individual who eats to excess is unconsciously attempting to fill an empty life or an empty heart when he fills his stomach with food. On this theory, boredom, prolonged inactivity, and lack of affection—any situation, in fact, that leaves an individual with a psychological feeling of emptiness—will lead to overeating.

Drugs Impractical

The use of drugs, accompanied by rigid diets in treating obesity, can be both dangerous and impractical. Drugs, such as amphetamine, that decrease the appetite, also often produce sleeplessness, and occasionally may increase, rather than decrease, the desire to eat.

Medication with thyroid, although indicated when a person has a lack of thyroid gland secretion, may cause a mineral and nitrogen loss from the body.

Therefore, a logical approach to the problem of overweight in many persons may be the institution of psychotherapy. An attempt must be made to replace the psychological emptiness in the obese person's mind, as well as the emptiness in his stomach.

He may be aided, meanwhile, by substances that will fill the stomach, so as to create a comfortable feeling of fullness, and yet have no caloric value, thus enabling him to be satisfied with smaller amounts of food.

Recently, a number of products composed of methylcellulose, which has this action, have been used. They did not interfere with the digestive action of the intestinal tract and caused no reactions. A group of 20 persons who had psychological difficulties causing obesity were treated with methylcellulose and psychotherapy with good results.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

Busy People Are These Commies

By George Sokolsky

Professor Karl A. Wittfogel of the University of Washington and director of the Chinese history project, now stationed at Columbia University, is recognized as a genuine authority in this field.

He used to be a Communist and must have been of some importance in the party in Germany because in 1929 (the date is important) he attended the second congress of the league against imperialism, at Frankfurt-am-Main. Nehru, now prime minister of India, was present as well as

Chi Chao-Ting, who represented China. According to Wittfogel, Chi was then employed in the communist central agency of international Communism. Dr. Wittfogel testified before the McCarran committee:

"...In order to be permitted to work in the Comintern, which is the headquarters of the Communist movement, you have to be not only a rank and file member of the movement, but a very well trained and extremely well selected man."

The McCarran committee produced a letter written by Edward

C. Carter on August 1, 1941 to Mrs. Dudley Stuart Blossom, concerning the achievements of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which contains this data concerning Chi and related subjects:

"You doubtless know that on President Roosevelt's nomination, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek invited Owen Lattimore to go to Chungking as his personal political adviser. Lattimore arrived in Chungking ten days ago. Another member of the international secretariat, Dr. Ch' Ao-Ting Chi, went with our best wishes on the same plane to become general secretary of the American-British-Chinese currency stabilization fund of U. S. $95,000,000. Here we have a case of outstanding services of the I. P. R. -- in that of Lattimore, an American to the Chinese government and in that of Chi, a Chinese of the American-British and Chinese governments. A former member of the secretariat, Irving Friedman, for whom I secured an appointment and an opportunity to study India as an employee of the Indian government, trade commissioner in New York, has now been given an important research position in the treasury in Washington, one for which he is highly qualified."

"Officers in the army, navy, Federal Research Bank (must mean reserve), department of commerce and the Office of Price Administration and civilian supplies are asking for and getting substantial help from our research staff..."

"Another demand of a different kind has been made upon us. Mr. Henry R. Luce, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie and Mr. James G. Blaine have asked me to serve as chairman of the disbursements committee which is making a very thorough-going survey of China's needs and how the $5,000,000 fund, if raised, can best be spent for maximum relief and at the same time to contribute to long-range reconstruction."

It is amazing how these busy people get into all kinds of situations. Actually, they do it by pushing themselves forward and encountering little resistance.

We now have the sworn evidence of Dr. Wittfogel that Chi was a Communist in 1929; yet he managed to move about this country, getting into all sorts of activities, mainly through the Institute of Pacific Relations, and was accepted at face value. To the Chinese, he seemed to be important because of the powerful people he knew in the United States. But what made him important to the Americans?

Here is a character, Michael Greenberg, whom Wittfogel says he met in Cambridge, England, and whom he knew as an English Communist. He then shows up in the United States as connected with Pacific affairs, which Owen Lattimore edited. This man was employed in the White House as assistant to Lauchlin Currie.

The United States Civil Service Commission wrote Senator McCarran on July 13, 1951:

"Michael Greenberg was appointed to a position with the Board of Economic Warfare on November 9, 1942. On July 7, 1944, he was transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration and on September 27, 1945, he was transferred to the Department of State. His employment was terminated due to reduction in force on June 15, 1946. In connection with his employment with the Foreign Economic Administration, an investigation of Mr. Greenberg was conducted by the Civil Service Commission to determine his general qualifications for federal employment. As a result of this investigation Mr. Greenberg was barred from competing in Civil Service examinations on March 7, 1947 because of questionable loyalty."

How did these people get into these places? Who opened the door for them?

WHILE TRUCE talks lag at Kaesong, the Communists are reported building up military might in Red-held area (shaded). A North Korean armored division is deployed in the Sariwon area (1) on road between Pyongyang and Kaesong; two Chinese tank divisions have been identified, near Wonsan and 18 miles north of central front (arrows, 2); a Chinese "replacement pool" of 200,000 men is reported waiting north of the Yalu (3). The rail line from Manjojin has been bombed numerous times.

Indians Beaten Again by Browns

No Games Played In National League

BY RALPH RODEN
(By The Associated Press)

Generally, the St. Louis Browns are used as stepping stones by pennant contending teams in the American League. But that's not the case if the Cleveland Indians are the opposition.

The Browns, hibernating in last place, 40 games out of the pace, helped knock the Indians out of the 1950 race and last night dealt the tribe a staggering blow in the current flag chase.

St. Louis defeated the Indians, 6-3, to dump the tribe one game behind the idle New York Yankees. The victory was the lowly Browns' fifth in 16 meetings with Cleveland. The Yanks hold a 17-3 record against the Browns and the third place Boston Red Sox boast a 16-5 record over the Missourians.

The Browns killed Cleveland's flag hopes last year. The Indians were 4½ games behind on Sept. 9 when the Browns came in and swept a four game series to balk Cleveland's threat.

BASEBALL IN CLEVELAND, is becoming such a strange business that Earl Averill, in town today for an all-star celebration, had better be careful what he signs.

Years ago, Averill hit that long ball for the Indians. Then with the tribe brass considering ex-triber Rudy York for the roster well, what's wrong with Averill?

They consider last night's doings at Municipal Stadium.

1. A figure out of the past, Satchel Paige came into the game for the Browns in the ninth and loaded the bases with a walk. Then, with nobody out, he allowed no hits, one run and wound up the proceedings by striking out his old roommate, Larry Doby.

So the Browns won, 6 to 3.

2. St. Louis right fielder Cliff Mages said that wasn't two-run homer at all that Bob Lemon hit in the seventh inning—that was an out. What happened, he said, was that fan in the right field stands grabbed the ball out of his glove. The umpire ruled otherwise and threw Manager Zack Taylor out of the game for arguing about it.

3. The Browns had a clown, Max Patking, as a first base coach. He was waving a red handkerchief to "signal" players. The fans roared. The Indians saw nothing funny and said so.

Otherwise, it was a typical night at the stadium. The Indians got six hits off winning pitcher Jim McDonald, while the Browns were tagging Bob Lemon for nine, including homer by Hank Arft and Freddie Marston and Lou Brissie for two.

THE BROWNS POUNDED Bob Lemon, gunning for his eighth straight and 17th victory, and Lou Brissie for 11 hits. Hank Arft was the Browns' big gun, driving in four runs on a homer and two singles. Fresh Marsh also homered for the Browns while Lemon drove in Cleveland's first two runs with a circuit blow in the seventh.

The Yanks, off the past two days, resume action today with the Senators in Washington. Ed Lopat (16-7) is slated to face Washington's Sid Hudson (4-8). The Indians again entertain the Browns and the third place Red Sox take on Philadelphia in Boston.

In the only other game yesterday the Chicago White Sox blanked the Detroit Tigers, 2-0. Saul Rogovin, former Tiger, limited the Bengals to seven hits. Pitcher Marlin Stuart batted out a triple and two singles and allowed only six hits. The White Sox scored both of their runs in the sixth.

Nelson Fox singled, stole second and went to third on an error by Bob Swift. Fox scored when shortstop Johnny Lipon made a two base error on Minnie Minoso's grounder. Ed Robinson singled Minoso home with the final run.

Action in the National League picks up today with the big game pitting the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers against the runner-up Giants in New York.

Pierson spotlighted the defense, because he admitted that this was his chief worry.

"They (the Buccaneers) didn't make a yard," he said with a booming note of pride in the Lions. Although nearly every one of the boys on the WHS squad got in to the act, the mainstays on the line were Dale Orihood and Don Foster at center; Dick Waters, Joe Provost and Terry Bright at the guard spots and Jim Perrill, Merrill Kaufman, Walter Plymale, Chester Dean and Darrell Stewart at the tackles.

FIVE OF THE SQUAD are being developed to fill the big vacancies at the ends—and they did all right, although Pierson admitted they lacked experience in the finer points on both offense and defense. Making their first starts at the flanks were Jack Rettig, Allen Grillot, Jack English, Skip Allen and Wayne VanMeter, the team's handyman.

Joe Wilson, a husky lad who has played both end and tackle, was out with a bad arm. He is expected to be in shape in another week, at least before the opening game with Linden-McKinley at Columbus Sept. 14, if not for the SCO Prevue here next Friday night.

THE WHS OFFENSE, however, was the bright spot of the business at Xenia—but, then, that was no surprise with the four old hands, Carl Smith, Charles Holbrook, Neil Childress and Bob Alkire handling the ball carrying chores.

Smith shook loose for two spectacular runs, one a 70-yarder on a punt return and the other for 50 yards around end.

The backfield performance made Curt Koons, the assistant coach, very happy; for the backfield is his special concern.

Pierson and Koons said the scrimmage "did both teams a lot of good" and that it was a help to the coaches in spotting the strength and weakness of their squads and training schedules.

Because the night was so hot and sultry, play slowed down considerably toward the end.

A week of intensive workouts and polishing up processes was ahead of the Lions as they get ready for next Friday night's SCO Prevue.

Dudley Hanover Wins Race in 1:59

DU QUOIN, Ill., Sept. 1—(AP)—Dudley Hanover, owned by the Host Hayes Fair Acres Stables, was the only horse to cover a mile in better than two minutes during the Grand Circuit harness racing program at the Du Quoin State Fair.

The four year old chestnut horse won the $10,000 Mid-America Pace runoff heat in 1:59 yesterday as the Grand Circuit wound up its program here. The Grand Circuit now moves on to Indianapolis.

Dudley Hanover defeated Prince Jay of S. A. Camp Farms Co., Safeter, Calif., by a length in the runoff.

Other winners yesterday were Pronto Don of Hayes Fair Acres in the free for all trot, Scotch Story of Craig Cammaron Ranch of LeMoore, Calif., in the over-night pace, and Thunderation, owned by Parker R. Whiting of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the overnight trot.

Wilmington Wins Tournament Game

WILMINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—Barney's Bar of Hamilton, white-washed Doc's Place of Greenfield, 3-0, last night in one of three second-day games played in the third annual Wilmington Invitation Softball Tournament.

In the other contests, Dayton Burger Beer blanked the 529 Club of Covington, Ky., 12-0, Frank Carano of Springfield defeated the Questionmarks, Springfield, 3-1. Play will resume Monday, with the following games on tap: Wilmington Casting Co. vs. Champion Paper, Hamilton; CIO Communications Workers of America, Cincinnati, vs. V-Bar, Dayton; and Lowenstein Furniture, Hamilton, vs. Wright-Patterson Welfare, Dayton.

The tournament is a double-elimination competition.

WORK DELAYED WILMINGTON—Due to a labor union dispute work has been delayed on installing equipment at Memorial Hospital here.

Trainer-Driver from Here Wins State Fair Race Trophy

Hugh Beatty, who is now in only his second season of harness horse training and driving, brought top honors to his home town of Washington C. H., at the State Fair Friday afternoon.

He was awarded the big trophy put up by George Reverman for the fastest time turned in by a trotter during the week.

51 Boys on Squad At Circleville Now

Circleville's Tigers, a thorn in the side of the WHS Lion football teams for the last few years, will be just that again this fall if the size of the squad means anything. When the Tigers held their first scrimmage this week, there were 51 of them on the field.

That compares with the WHS squad of 32. The Tigers team is made up of eight seniors, 10 juniors, 16 sophomores and 17 freshmen. Out of that bunch, there is considerable experience for the foundation on which Coach Steve Brudzinski can build the 1951 team.

Missing from the team is Dave Coffman, last year's regular end. His parents have moved to Chillicothe.

The freshmen and sophomores are under the guidance of Dick West, the assistant coach. Coach Tom Bennett is directing the preparations for developing the Tiger line.

DAYTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—Three persons were killed yesterday when a television antenna they were erecting fell across a power-line and electrocuted them.

Killed were Chester Brown, 47, his wife, Evelyn, 46, and Dora Esther, their 17-year-old daughter.

Man Fatally Burned

GREEN BAY, Wis., Sept. 1—(AP)—A trash hauler was burned fatally yesterday when he was jerked head first into the blazing inferno of the municipal incinerator.

42 Ousted Cadets Make Applications With Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 1—(AP)—The University of Notre Dame isn't saying whether Joseph P. Kennedy is putting up the money for the expelled West Point cadets to go to school at Notre Dame.

An anonymous benefactor has offered to pay board, room and tuition for any of the 90 ousted cadets who can meet Notre Dame entrance requirements, need financial help and will stay out of intercollegiate athletics.

A New York newspaper columnist said yesterday friends are speculating that Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain, is the donor.

University officials declined to comment on the report. The columnist, Frank Farrell of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, said Father Cavanaugh made a quick visit to Kennedy's summer home at Hyannis, Mass., shortly after the West Point cribbing scandal broke.

The cadet offer may cost the benefactor plenty. With today the deadline for applying, 42 of 90 had sent in applications up to yesterday. If that many should be accepted, the cost would be $63,000 a year.

Wife of Indian Soldier Refuses Burial at Home

WINNEBAGO, Neb., Sept. 1—(AP)—The widow of a Winnebago Indian soldier, whose burial was halted by a private cemetery, prepared today for her husband's interment in Arlington National Cemetery as arranged by President Truman.

Pretty Mrs. Evelyn Rice, 29, widow of Sgt. 1/C John R. Rice, quietly accepted an apology from Sioux City, Ia., Memorial Park Cemetery last night but declined its change-of-heart offer of a free burial lot.

"Were it not for the greater honor which has come to my husband I would accept," she said.

The president offered a Virginia resting place among the nation's hero dead for Sergeant Rice after learning the Korean war victim's body was removed from the Sioux City graveside Tuesday because he was "not Caucasian."

Nationwide Dope Ring Smashed in Harlem

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—Police have smashed a $1,000,000-a-year Harlem wholesale dope ring supplying customers from coast to coast, they announced today.

In an 11-hour roundup yesterday and last night, narcotics squad detectives arrested seven men who had been under surveillance for the past 10 weeks.

Slain Girl Found

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 1—(AP)—The body of five year old Yvonne Georgiana Birritz, missing from her home since yesterday afternoon, was found in a vacant lot at the Cicero-Chicago city limits today with the skull bashed in.

Handling the actual plant operations is Clyde Bailey, who has been on the job off and on since 1935, when the plant was built. He works from 7 A. M. until 4 P. M. each day, and he sometimes works into the night when occasion demands.

Part time assistants are Harvey Brown, who assists the operator, and Bradley Bennett, who helps with the upkeep of the plant and works in the service department. Hall said: "The street department, under the direction of Clyde Smith, assists greatly in the operation of the sewage disposal plant. We get 100 percent cooperation from Smith and his crew in plant maintenance, grounds maintenance and painting."

Dog Warden Asks For Help

Seeks Cooperation of Parents and Children

The nuisance of dogs following children to school and gathering on school grounds, caused a considerable amount of complaint last year.

Otis Bonecutter, the county dog warden, has been making plans to eliminate future complaints with the beginning of the new school year Tuesday.

He has mapped out a campaign of visits to the grounds of every school in this city and county, every week, in an effort to get rid of the dog troubles which brought these complaints during the last school year.

He is asking the cooperation of school children and parents to help solve the difficulties.

Appearing in the Record-Herald office Saturday morning, he told of his plans to get rid of this trouble by visiting the various school grounds as often as possible, to gather up any dogs found on the premises.

Last winter there were numerous dogs following children to school. This caused other dogs to make the school grounds a daily gathering place, particularly in this city and in Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville.

If the school children and parents will try to keep dogs from following the children to school, Bonecutter says, more than half the trouble will be eliminated.

All dogs found on the grounds will be taken to the dog-pound, where owners may later get them by paying any expenses incurred.

Bloomingburg Cubs Take in Sights Here Four Plants Visited On All-day Tour

Refreshed by a night's sound sleep, the 23 boys of Bloomingburg's three-den Cub Pack No. 133 today were talking about their big day Friday when they took in some of the sights in Washington C. H., on an all-day tour conducted by the den mothers.

The Cubs and their eight guests, half of them girls, and the five den mothers and supervisors, started out from Bloomingburg at mid-morning on their tour.

Their first stop was at the Pennington Bakery, where they were all given doughnuts just out of the kettle. They also saw nearly every other type of bakery product in the process of development from the flour sack to...well, a tasty doughnut.

A midday recess was taken for a wiener roast and picnic at the roadside park at Johnson's Crossing on the Circleville Pike. Lunch and play at the park lasted about two hours, then the tour was resumed.

First stop of the afternoon was at the Cudahy Packing Co. plant here. There the visitors saw ice cream and cheese in the making, cream being brought in and butter being packaged. The highlight of the visit there, of course, was the ice cream bars that were handed out by the company; they made the perfect dessert after the noon picnic.

See Newspaper Printed

From the Cudahy plant, the young sightseers came to the Record-Herald. They arrived just in time to see the last of the big page plates being cast for the press and stayed long enough to watch the evening's edition come rolling off. They broke up into small groups so the operations of Linotype type-setting, composition, make-up, etc. could be explained better. Lacking doughnuts and ice cream, the youngsters waited in line at the automatic water cooler for a drink from its fountain. On their way to the composing room and the press room, the Cubs and their guests went through the business office. On their way out they went through the news room.

Last stop on the tour was at the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. plant here.

The Cubs on the trip were Buddy Fridley, Jim Hidy, Gregg Bowsher, Johnny Cunningham, Doug Cunningham, Larry Carman, Larry Deskins, Jimmy Pope, Tommy Slager, Carl Wilt, Jr., Bobby Grim, Donnie Grim, Jimmie Grim, Edwin Seymour, Michael Foster, Stephen Foster, Jack Stultz, Franklin Perry, Billy Boyd, Paul Wrobel, Jack Elliott, Michael Thompson and David Heistand.

The den mothers and guests who accompanied the Cubs were Mrs. Charline Cunningham, Mrs. Ralph Pope, Mrs. Mary Foster, Mrs. Nina Elliott, Mrs. Erma Heistand, Mrs. William Boyd, Mrs. Raymond Grim, Mrs. Dan Thompson, Irene Grim, David Grim, Paul Grim, blossoms which are distinctive in this particular cacti.

Tradition associates the cereus bloom with the flight of the holy family into Egypt when Herod sent his soldiers to destroy the first born children.

The legend is that the holy family stopped one night in a cave, and a spider spun his web over the cave immediately after the family entered. Soldiers reached the cave, found the entrance filled with spiderwebs, and did not enter.

It is further stated in the legend that the spider and web were transformed into crystal, as were the stalactites, and the night-blooming plant started blooming at night in the area.
